SWAN - LAPHAM

A very attractive wedding was solemnized at the Locke Mills Union Church on Sunday evening at eight o'clock when Miss Nellie Lapham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Carlton Lapham, was united in marriage to Kenneth Swan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Porter Swan, of Bryant, by Rev. Kenneth Swan, former pastor at Bryant, performed the double ring ceremony at a candle light service.

The bride was attired in white satin and wore a finger tip veil trimmed with lace and carried a colonial bouquet of white flowers. She was given in marriage by her father, J. Carlton Lapham. Miss Claire Lapham, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and she was dressed in gold satin and carried a colonial bouquet of yellow and rust colored flowers. Miss Beverly Lurvey and Eleanor Hammond served as bridesmaids and wore aqua satin and colonial bouquets of yellow flowers. The groom chose for his attendant Ellsworth Hathaway of Abington, Mass. The ushers were Roy Smith, Howard McKillop and Kenneth McInnis. Mrs. Treasa Stowell was organist, and the soloist, Miss Beverly Lurvey, sang "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me." Two cousins of the bride, Annie and Neva Cross, dressed in pink satin, were train bearers, and another cousin, Charlene Rice who was also dressed in pink satin, was flower girl.

The church was decorated with evergreens and mixed flowers. The groom's gift to the bride was jewelry; to the best man, a billfold, and to the ushers, initialed tie clips. The bride gave the groom a jacket. The maid of honor received a bracelet and ear rings to match, and the bridesmaids were given bracelets.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Legion Hall. Mrs. Carol Jordan was in charge of the gifts, and Mrs. Sylvia Dunham, the guest book. Mrs. Edith Rice, aunt of the bride, was in charge of refreshments and was assisted by Mrs. Vera Cross, Mrs. Arlene McKillop, sister of the groom, and Miss Clara Whitman, aunt of the groom. Miss Lena Cook of Lewiston served the wedding cake.

Mrs. Swan is a graduate of Gould Academy and attended the Maine School of Commerce at Auburn, and has been employed in the office of the Lewiston Hardware Co. at Lewiston. Mr. Swan, a graduate of Woodstock, served two years in the army during the war, and is now employed at Goodwin's Dairy Bar at South Paris. They will reside at South Paris, and Mrs. Swan has accepted a position as bookkeeper at the office of Wilner Wood Heel Co. at Norway.

BOOSTER NIGHT AT BEAR RIVER GRANGE

Bear River Grange, No. 285, celebrated Booster Night, on Sept. 23. The evening got underway with the regular officers taking the seats in Grange attire. The Master, Royal Hodson, led the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," followed by a short prayer by the Chaplain.

The Master gave an address of welcome to all who were present, followed by the singing of "It's a Good Thing to Be a Granger," and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic." The National Master's Message was then read by the Master, after which all Grangers present gave one reason why they joined the Grange. Captain Lovejoy and Major Noble of the Volunteer Workers of America gave a talk on the work of the Workers. A comedy skit was nicely presented by Bryce Yates and Raymond Nowlin which was greatly enjoyed. Grange comedian Charles Burnham read an original poem about different characters in the Grange. The Lecturer, Laura Yates, read a short article on Grange history followed by singing by Raymond Nowlin with accompaniment on the guitar by Yvonne Nowlin. Eva Yates gave a reading on "Our Grange" which greatly amused everyone. Next, Carrie Wright presented an educational number. Pictures in color on local places, mostly in Norway, were presented by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thurston of Norway. Then all enjoyed about 20 minutes of violin and guitar music by Carl Nowlin and Yvonne Nowlin. The Young People's Degree team put on a drill which brought forth applause from the audience.

A short social was enjoyed until the lights failed due to a short-circuit in the switch box. The men gathered around to see if it was possible to fix it and while being so occupied, the special committee selected for the purpose brought forth the refreshments of apples, nuts, candy, and pop corn. During the eating of the refreshments the Lecturer accepted guesses on the weight of a large Blue Hubbard Squash which weighed 38½ pounds, won by Eddie Pelletier of Hanover.

COL. MILLETT EXPLAINS CIVIL DEFENSE AT C. OF C. MEETING

At the first fall meeting of the Bethel Chamber of Commerce, held at the American Legion Home on Tuesday evening, Colonel Robert Millett gave a comprehensive explanation of the plan of Civil Defense now being organized. Speaking from over 30 years of military experience, he was able to cover the subject fully, including the national, state, county and local procedures. The Colonel is in charge of the Oxford County organization, which he says is making good progress with one town, Woodstock, completely organized.

At the business meeting it was voted not to sell the building formerly used for an information booth on Railroad Street, as it might again be needed as an observation post. GOULD DOWNS MEXICO, 20-6, FOR FIRST WIN

The Huskies struck pay dirt early in the game at Mexico last Saturday as Bean scampered 41 yards for the first score. The light Mexico team however came back in the second period to score after a 60 yard march climaxed by Al Smith's four yard plunge to tie up the score at 6-6. Before the half ended Bean got off a long kick that bounded to the goal line and as Gallant of the Pintos tried to run it back he was downed behind the goal by Ferguson for a two point safety leaving Gould out front 8-6 as the half ended.

In the third period Gould broke through to block a Mexico punt and two plays later Streeter squirmed his way 37 yards for a T. D. Mexico never threatened in the last half and the "Blue and Gold" came through with their final tally in the last period. Bean scored from the four yard line after the winners had marched 61 yards on a sustained drive from the Mexico 35 yard line.

Behind the China Curtain

With world attention centered on the Orient, and especially on China and its behavior under Communist masters, it is well for us to know what's going on behind the scenes in this area so important to the future of Asia and, indeed, the whole world. I've just had as my guest a Chinese business man who has spent his lifetime in China, who has had personal contact with the Chinese Communists and has observed at first hand the turn of events since they occupied the country. He is a university graduate, a highly intelligent, unusually well-informed person, in fact, he was with American intelligence in China during World War II.

Any war today involving the United States against world Communism would find the masses of the Chinese people "ready and anxious to revolt" against their Communist masters, he says. "If it is the Communists are given 10 years in China," he says, "they will have indoctrinated our young people so thoroughly and enslaved the others so completely that any spirit of revolt remaining alive will have been rendered impotent." This is a significant opinion in view of the theory, long projected by some of our foreign policy leaders, that China "is too big for the Communists to swallow."

Opportunity Closed

Three-fourths of all the people of China are against Communism now," he says. "They would revolt if they had a chance. They have discovered by personal experience that Communism permits only a bare existence, at best, if they order their lives in the Communist mold there is absolutely no hope or promise of rising above the existence level. Through there have been several outbreaks through the centuries, my people have always been conscious of the opportunity, however difficult, for anyone to rise above the station of peasantry. The opportunity now is closed."

The Communist turn a benign face to the Chinese people, he says. "But their unspoken threats loom terrible behind their politeness. To oppose or even to question their 'suggestions' means imprisonment or death, or both. All Chinese people have become aware of this fact by observation in their communities."

No Land Reform

The Chinese people, he says, "have found too, that the promised Communist land reforms will not materialize. It is true that the existing high rents which many landlords had imposed for generations have ceased going to the landlords, but it is not true that Chinese peasants have been 'given' land. The Communist 'title' in every case has retained ownership. The peasant on his parcel of land merely has changed landlords."

He is permitted to keep from his rice harvest only a small portion above his own requirements and with this he must meet all of the living expenses. The remainder is taken away by the Communist government. With the allotment he must earmark a quantity to exchange for the everyday family and some necessities and conserve the rest as the chief item of the family diet. The allotment represents his whole income.

Communist "Democracy"

"The selling of land and other wealth goes down to the lowest level of ownership. The landlord owning five acres of land is approached for ten acres and told that he needs only one acre of ownership of four acres is taken away from him and the Communist officials say, 'Oh, by the way, the rental you've charged during the past has been rather high. We think you should have charged only half as much. You will please return 50 per cent of the rental

★ AUTHOR OF HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING ★

Do the Thing You Fear To Do

HERE'S A MAN who says that at one time, and not so long ago, he was living virtually in a state of confusion. He found himself unable to make clean-cut, definite decisions on even minor matters. He would have his mind almost made up on a certain point, then, presto! he would begin to waver.

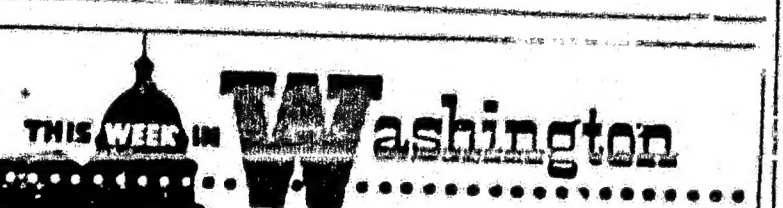

This man is Stewart H. Jessoe, Hugo, Oklahoma.

Well, it's not surprising to hear that any man wavers today when confronted with a decision. We have so much evidence presented on each side of a question, and much of it forced, untrue. But let's go on and see what happened in the case of Stewart Jessoe when he was promoted to a new job in his company. This job carried quite a lot of responsibility. He had to both plan and direct the work of others. He was quite happy when he was told he was to get this promotion. It was something he had been working toward, longing for. A step up the ladder he had set himself out to climb. He continued to be happy for a couple of months, went to work each morning with enthusiasm.

As bigger problems presented themselves, as those working under him did not always cooperate, fear seized him, he began to worry. What if he couldn't handle this job to the satisfaction of his superiors after all? What if he made some vital mistake, something which would mean a severe loss? And once he started worrying, he found it the most natural thing in the world to continue. Of course, he didn't call it worry, or fear, even though he stumbled over a decision. By and by, he lost so much confidence in his own ability to think things through that he didn't perform even the simplest of jobs well. Then the future seemed dark.

Then he read some advice made popular by the late Theodore Roosevelt. This advice ran: Do the thing you fear to do and fear will disappear. Now he realized that he was afraid to make a decision, afraid he would be wrong. So he made up his mind that he would do what seemed to him to be the right thing—and stand by whatever consequence. He would believe himself in the right and he would work to make that right come right.

Well, it was very simple after that. The first time wasn't too difficult, and each succeeding time became easier. And it was amazing how many times his decisions proved to be right. Now he knows that there was nothing the matter with him but he had not conquered himself.

A TURN FOR THE BETTER in the Korean war news, the upheaval in the President's cabinet brought about by the resignation of Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson, the unexpected bitter denunciation of Gen. George C. Marshall by Sen. William E. Jenner of Indiana, and the first orders of the new war production control organization were the highlights of the Washington picture recently.

Johnson's resignation was not expected until after the November elections had passed. Some of the pressure upon President Truman for the alleged aim of omission in the preparedness program in Korea, but despite these charges the navy, the army, the air force and the entire defense set-up have performed a miracle of logistics in the transportation of men and material over the 6,000 mile supply line to Korea, as evidenced by the recent landings of upwards of 40,000 men and a mountain of material at the new Seoul front.

It is significant that the same people who were loudest in their praise of Johnson's resignation a few months ago are now loudest in their denunciation of the ousted defense chief, and that our military defense as evidenced by recent happenings in Korea were at work as the first few weeks of the war indicated.

The Johnson resignation is considered here a great victory for Secretary of State Dean Acheson and his far east foreign policy, and those sounding the loss and cry for Acheson's resignation have been applauded by a handful, headed by Senators Wherry of Nebraska and McCarthy of Wisconsin.

In the meantime, two rather important measures have gone over the congressional hurdles—one to provide authorizations for between $150 million and $170 million in federal aid for school construction, the other measure to provide a five-year armory reconstruction program at $40 million a year, the federal government providing 75 per cent and the states supplying 25 per cent.

You're collected during the past three years? To whom? To the Communist government? Not the money and cash, in desperation, he goes to prison. He is allowed to make payments with the income from one-acre left to him."

My guest is not a "follower" of the "China Kahlshah," the Nationalist leader. However, he says the "draft and corruption" attributed to the Chiang regime has been "refuted" out of all proportions by Communist propaganda, their attacks and unwilling dupes. He

As finally adopted, the new tax bill will increase individual income taxes about 17 per cent and corporation taxes about 15 per cent. In general, the individual income tax brackets will about equal the tax cuts voted in 1945 and 1948. Agreement was reached to let the excess profits provision wait until next year, but to draw up such a measure early in 1951 and make it retroactive on corporate profits to July 1, 1950.

Among other late action was a bill to shelve cotton acreage allotments, but to set up peanut acreage quotas for 1951 and 1952; postponement of action on the controversial senate-passed central Arizona project; approval and authorization of construction of the $76-million Falladale dam project in Idaho; granting the states permission to set up home guards while the national guard is serving abroad and authorizing the federal government to supply the arms and ammunition for these a home guard units; and placing at the bottom of the list of must legislation the two statehood bills for Alaska and Hawaii.

The senate has set up a subcommittee of its armed services committee to serve as a watchdog for investigation of the national defense program. The new seven-member group is headed by Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas and will act similarly to the old Truman war investigating committees. The committee has the blessing of President Truman and, by its own admission, it is proposed to "reactivate" the Truman committee which showed investigating committees could do during a grave emergency when close understanding between the legislative and executive branches is essential to the national security.

Its primary objective, according to Senator Johnson, is to develop the supply of natural and synthetic rubber and put the surplus property disposal system in line with national emergency demands. It is concerned not merely with the Korean war, but with any future war, hot or cold, military or economic, declared or undeclared.

It would even be "out of scale" with the political graft and corruption in some American cities. He says also that before Communists occupied Central and South China, land reform laws had been passed by the Chiang government which would ultimately have ended the worst features of Chinese landlordism.

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLDTIMERS

From the Old Timer of Frankfort, Ky. to C. M. Johns: There was a significant mistake in my handling of your recent contribution to "I Remember" in which you recalled when harvesting was done by hand and cradles and sheaves were tied by hand. The item, as it appeared in the column, said the men used to work from sunup to sundown for 75 cents to a dollar an hour! Of course, no one—not even white-collar workers—earned that much in those days. Obviously, their wages ranged from 75 cents to a dollar a day, like you said originally. Obviously!

From Jennie Garard of Bakersfield, Calif.: I remember my mother getting up early to make a fresh cream pie for breakfast, or perhaps vinegar pie. Both kinds were delicious. Mother's pie drawer, holding five pies, was never empty and we kids were permitted to help ourselves upon coming home from school. This was when we lived in Indiana. Hoosiers are noted as great pie-eaters.

From E. E. Meredith of Fairmont, W. Va.: I remember when pound packages of Arbuckle's coffee contained cards with information concerning the various states and children traded with the hope of getting every state.

A Plea to Congress

From The American Press

When 80% of grass-roots editors answer "Yes" to the question, "Do you fear that our nation is headed toward Socialism," don't you think it is time something was done about it?

We have no reason to believe that the majority of Congress wants Socialism. We know that if the voters in the last Congressional election had run on a Socialist ticket, they would have been soundly defeated. Yet it is the votes of Congressional majorities which have created the situation which makes our country editors see the socialist handwriting on the wall.

What can be done about it?

The editors say these are the big things to do:

1. Drastically reduce the size and cost of Federal government.
2. Re-establish home-rule by returning governmental authority, wherever possible, to the states and communities.
3. Eliminate subsidies.
4. Reduce social services of the Federal government.
5. Balance the budget and reduce the national debt.

Frankly, the editors don't expect Congress to do any of these things. Their major hope seems to be that Congress won't pass too much additional "socialistic" legislation.

But there is no reason why Congress cannot do all of these things if enough individual members are willing to put the future of the country, and of their own sons and daughters, ahead of politics.

A good politician, it has been said, is one who always votes for an appropriation and always votes against a tax. We have had far too many "good politicians" occupying seats in Congress.

It has become such a concern to the country editors that many no longer ask for tax reductions. They are willing to let present high taxes stand, and some would even be willing to pay higher taxes, if only Congress would reduce government costs enough to make it possible to chop down our staggering national debt and return to sanity.

The country editors, almost 100% strong, stick to simple old-fashioned beliefs like, "You shouldn't spend money you haven't got." Perhaps the answer to our problems is to elect more of such editors to Congress.

Maine newspapers devote many columns of space and radio stations about four hours of time a week to Extension Service news and information on farming, home-making and club work. This helps keep Maine residents informed of the latest practices and developments in agriculture and home-making.

It is the harvest time to be completed before freeze-up. Chemicals, pesticides, and flame throwers have been used to kill the tops.

PRIZE PHOTOS TO BE SHOWN AT GOULD

Representing the American way of life as seen through the eyes of high school students, sixty-two pictures will be exhibited at Gould Academy. They will remain through Oct. 11-19 and will be shown in the Holden Hall show-room.

The exhibit consists of a selection of prize winners from the fourth annual (1949) National High School Photographic Awards sponsored by the Eastman Kodak Company. Included in the exhibit are First, Second and Third Prize winners from the four contest classes, plus a selection from the remaining 332 prize-winning prints.

The diversity of subject matter testified to the wide range of interests among teenagers in photography as an art and in visual interpretation of American life. Street scenes, public buildings, farm life, children, pets, animal and flower subjects, and pictorial scenes hang side by side with tense action shots of school activities taken at football and basketball games and track meets. Many fine pictures of the various other phases of school life were also shown.

The photographs were exhibited by high school students throughout the United States in grades from the ninth to the twelfth inclusive. The pictures, which in the judges' opinion topped all other entries, were a pictorial study of a plaid horse grazing placidly by an old country barn titled "On the Farm." It was entered by Richard Crumney, fifteen year old high school freshman of the Gracery School, Summit, N. J. The picture won the $100 First Prize in the Pictorial Beauty class and received the Grand Prize of $500.

Judges in this contest, in which $5,000 was awarded in prizes, were Clifford Wip, director of art at the Rochester Institute of Technology, Joseph C. Smith, chairman of the board, National Press Photographers' Association, and Kenneth W. Williams, Manager, Photographic Illustrations Division, Eastman Kodak Company.

In reviewing the Awards as a whole, the judges spoke highly of the choice of subject matter and the quality of the pictures submitted by thousands of contestants from all sections of the country.

"I have been tremendously impressed by the progress that these pictures show young people are making in all phases of photography," said Mr. C. Smith. "Their new sense and ability to quickly and effectively get their pictures are particularly good."

"Their ability to pleasingly, yet dramatically compose pictures, places their work definitely on a high plane," said Mr. Wip. "They have achieved a very high level of artistic expression."

While prints entered in the national contest were no larger than 8 1/2 inches, the maximum size per-

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable From Local Welfare.

The problem of whether, in a free society, we should make membership in the Communist party illegal early involves deep questions of principle. Many non-Communists feel that it would establish a precedent of great potential danger. Many others feel strongly that Communism at home is as great a menace as Communism abroad and cannot be tolerated.

An extremely interesting contribution to this controversy has been provided by Justice Robert H. Jackson of the Supreme Court. It is found in an opinion written by him in a test case before the Court concerning the constitutional validity of that provision of the Taft-Hartley Act which requires that officers of a labor union file an affidavit that they are not members of the Communist party.

Mr. Jackson opened his opinion with these words: "If the statute before us required labor union officers to forswear membership in the Republican party, the Democratic party, or the Socialist party, I suppose all agree that it would be unconstitutional. But why, if it is valid as to the Communist party? The answer, for me, is in the decisive difference between the Communist party and every other party of any importance in the long experience of the United States with party government."

The Justice then went on to point out five, distinguishing characteristics of the Communist party which place it in a unique position. In each case, he elaborated at length on these points which, in brief form, are as follows:

1. "The goal of the Communist party is to seize the powers of government by and for a minority rather than to acquire power through the vote of a free electorate."

2. "The Communist party alone among American parties past or present is dominated and controlled by a foreign government."

3. "Violent and undemocratic means are the calculated and indispensable methods to attain the Communist party's goal."

4. "The Communist party has sought to gain this leverage and hold on the American population by acquiring control of the labor movement."

5. "Every member of the Communist party is an agent to execute the Communist program." Mr. Jackson, of course, was dealing with a specific provision of one law—not with the proposition of whether the Communist party could be declared illegal. However, the points he laid down are, in general, those which have caused many thoughtful people to conclude that American Communism, with its foreign allegiance, is too great a danger to the nation to be permitted to exist. The evidence is now overwhelming that its sole purpose is to destroy this government and that the Kremlin calls the tune to which it dances.

MAINE CONGREGATIONALISTS GIVE CAR TO MISSIONARY

"India is destined to play an important role in the eventual stabilizing of Asia," says Rev. Joseph L. Moulton, Congregational Christian Missionary under the American Board of Foreign Missions who is sailing back to his post in Ahmednagar, India, from New York City, Thursday, October 5, on the S. S. George.

Mr. Moulton, who is a Connecticut Yankee, educated in Maine and Connecticut, has been working in India since 1918.

A very substantial reminder of the great Pine Tree State of Maine is going with Mr. Moulton in the shape of a Plymouth-DeSoto suburban carry-all automobile, the gift of the Congregational Christian Church of Maine. On its shining sides it will proudly bear the name of the Maine Pilgrim. The car will serve as transportation and home for Mr. Moulton as he travels throughout a territory with 90 villages. Sometimes the Maine Pilgrim will even be an ambulance.

Gifts for this automobile came in varying sizes, but one of the most important to Mr. Moulton was the 25 cents presented him by a small Maine boy in Norway.

Mr. Moulton is a graduate of Bates College which gave him an honorary degree in June 1949, and Hartford Seminary. In addition to his work as a Christian pastor, traveling superintendent and educator, Mr. Moulton helped organize the Rotary Club in Ahmednagar, and is the only "foreign" member.

Mrs. Moulton will remain in America for a few months and will then join Mr. Moulton in India.

The first daily in the United States appeared in Philadelphia in 1784.

WHEN YOU HAVE a few pieces of ironing left over or some pieces which are difficult to iron, wrap them carefully in waxed paper or a plastic bag and place them in the refrigerator. They will not dry out, and you'll be amazed at how much easier they are to iron.

To prevent starch from sticking, use borax. In the starch solution in the proportion of one teaspoon to a quart. When starch has stuck to the iron, avoid harsh abrasive cleaners. Fine steel wool may be used or whitening. Polish the iron when thoroughly clean with beeswax. Occasional tubbing cleans stuffed toys beautifully. Let them tumble in rich suds in the washer for about five minutes, rinse thoroughly, and hang by the ears to dry in the sun.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Molasses-Nut Bread (Makes 1 loaf)

- 1 tablespoon shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 2 cups sifted flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 cup milk
- 1 cup seedless raisins
- 1 cup broken nut meats

Cream shortening and add sugar, cream together. Add egg and blend thoroughly. Sift dry ingredients together and add to first mixture alternately with milk. Fold in raisins and nuts. Place in greased loaf pan; let stand for two minutes. Bake in a moderately slow (325°F.) oven for 1-1/4 hours.

Any material which has acetate present in it should be ironed carefully with a warm iron, which means using a temperature of less than 300 degrees F. Higher temperatures tend to melt or fuse the acetate rayon fibers.

When ironing rayon crepes and jerseys, iron with the grain of the fabric on the wrong side. Do touch-up jobs on right side using a pressing cloth.

Garments made of cotton corduroy can be safely laundered, but any wringing or twisting may roughen the finish. Since corduroy is heavy, allow time to dry.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Halloween is a fine time for making amusing shots such as this.

In Keeping With the Season

PICTURE taking is subject to seasonal change—but it is one field in which this is highly desirable because these seasonal changes add variety that is a favorable dash of spice in your snapshotting.

Fall brings wonderful opportunities for scenes that tell a story of autumn beauty. If you do your shooting in color, the jewel-toned hues of the foliage seem to have been painted there just for your camera.

This time of year also brings a revival of many indoor activities which had been abandoned—or moved outside—during the summer months. And that means more pictures by artificial light—so you'll be thinking in terms of flash bulbs and photohood lamps.

Fall also has its share of special occasions that demand pictures. The colorful football games on perfect Saturday afternoons almost insist on your using your camera. It doesn't matter whether it is one of THE big games of national importance or a contest between the local high school and its arch rival from a neighboring town—there'll be plenty of good pictures for you.

Halloween is, of course, one of the more unusual of the special days we observe. With its legends of witches on broomsticks and ghostly creatures that pass in the night, it takes us out of a world of reality into a pleasantly shivery, story-book land. And with it come ideas and opportunities for picture taking that are equally different from our usual approach.

While it certainly isn't a new idea—in fact, almost everyone tries it at one time or another—I still have a weakness for pictures of jack-o'-lanterns. You can always liven the idea with your own novel interpretation.

In the picture above, a photohood bulb in the pumpkin provided strong, even lighting for the grinning features and a flash exposure made certain that any movement of the inquisitive kitten wouldn't result in a blur. You can do equally well with the traditional candle illuminating the lantern and a one- or two-second time exposure—if you limit yourself to subjects of dependable quietness. In other words, if you are going to use a kitten or small child with the jack-o'-lantern, you'd better stick to flash.

SUCCESSFUL PARENTHOOD

By M. J. B. JONES
EDWARDS
Associated Editors
Parents Magazine

ARE YOU IN THE HABIT of leaving change in bureau drawers, and does it sometimes mysteriously disappear? And have you ever traced the missing money to your child with the sickening fear that you are raising a thief?

Children's stealing does present, at times, a problem of deep seriousness. But the situation sketched above may be merely a reflection of your own thoughtlessness. First, carelessness in leaving money around and thereby giving your children the impression that you have a great deal of it. Second, neglecting to make it clear to your children how much of your income, over and above their own allowances, is spent on them. An example of this was given by a mother whose small son frequently took money from her purse for ice cream cones. When questioned he said that she herself often bought silly hats, so why couldn't he buy ice cream when he wanted it? His own allowance of 25 cents a week seemed very small to him compared to the price of a hat, so he proceeded to take what he considered a further rightful share of the family income.

His parents explained to the boy that mother's hats, even if they looked silly to him, came in the same category as the lead plaid shirt, the cowboy outfit, the lumber jacket, boots, and other fancy articles of clothing his parents bought for him. Actually, the total of the son's unnecessary, but treasured, popular wearing apparel came to more than mother spent for extra hats.

Another answer to the problem was to increase the boy's allowance to cover a daily expenditure for ice cream, for there was nothing wrong about his liking for this nourishing dessert. But to keep the matter on a "business" basis it was agreed that he would no longer bother the cook this mother had a job and was not there when he came home from school for after-school snacks. Also, he was to do a few extra jobs at home to earn the additional money.

This story illustrates one fundamental in teaching children respect for money, that is, to give them as clear a picture as possible of how the family income is spent. It isn't, of course, right to burden children with worry over paying off a mortgage or a debt incurred for unexpected sickness bills. But if given a general idea of the demands on your purse for rent, food, help, etc., the child will usually accept his status as a member of a family which can afford only small amounts a week for spending money.

But what about the child who knows how much his parents can afford to give him but who still uses devious ways of trying to keep up with the playmates whose weekly allowance may be larger? Actually, what an envious child usually needs is not more money, but a stronger sense of prideful ties with his own family. Not being able to spend as much money as next-door Johnny soon loses its sting if your son can tell himself, "But my father spends a lot more time with me than Johnny's does!"

LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

Folks, the IQ of Mr and Mrs Average Citizen has deteriorated right smart. Otherwise the whole nation would be upon its ear when people in high spots in Govt. sound off with fool talk a dozen times a day. Take the Govt. "Council of Economic Advisors"—its chairman popped off with the statement that cutting Govt. spending would have little to do with reducing the outgo. A champion fool statement, I call it.

What kind of hombies does the wise man think we are—or are we. Non compos mentis, might describe us. But I don't think it is nearly that bad—we are just in a coma. Have been for a long spell.

But our IQ, how is it. We object to no budget—big as a barn door, or bigger. Welfare and Relief are now big business. Nobody raises a hand. Prosperity and Relief in bed together. Looks odd—also phony. In one state—California the paper says relief and welfare last year cost 300 million—300,000,000.

Bolled down, big Govt. is a poor substitute for business, any kind, little or big. Here in the middle of our war the Govt. is frittering millions on socialist frills—over a billion in housing, nearly 2 billion in dams and more dams, and to the tune of 2 and a half billion in agriculture tinkering.

What is a billion—that is the first IQ test. And next, who's billion is it, or was it.

Yours with the low down,
JO SERRA

Nobody's Business

In a great measure, highway safety in future years will depend upon the habits of the drivers of motor vehicles. It would seem then that young bicycle riders might well learn to practice the rudiments of highway courtesy, both for their present and future safety and the peace of mind of this generation of motorists and pedestrians. Too many of the young folks ride heedlessly on the wrong side of the road and owe their existence to the constant attention and correct guessing of worried drivers. The interest of the parents concerned and instruction by them, is the suggested solution. Habits of highway courtesy and good practice formed when they learn to ride a bicycle might well be a foundation for continued safe driving practices.

RED CROSS DISASTER COMMITTEE LISTED

Due to the proximity of the announcement of the Civilian Defense organization by Captain Lassiter, Bethel director, it is well to recall to mind the peacetime Red Cross Disaster Committee. The Committee automatically functions when a disaster occurs affecting 15 or more families. Local conditions may warrant the chairman calling the Committee to action for lesser casualties.

The Civilian Defense set-up crosses and coincides with various Red Cross sub-committees but many of the same personnel are involved, and complete cooperation is imperative.

The full Red Cross committee is as follows:

Disaster Committee — chairman, Addison Saunders, Bethel; co-chairmen, Robert Hastings, East Bethel, and Burton Newton, West Bethel.

Disaster sub-committees and chairman:

Survey — to determine possibilities of disaster and recommend means to cope with it, Philip Chadbourne.

Rescue — warning and evacuating with government assistance, Robert Blake, fire chief.

Medical and Nursing Aid — Dr. W. H. Boynton and Mrs. Alton Carroll, Bethel; E. F. Ireland.

Food — Mrs. Charles Gorman, Bethel; Mrs. Errol Donahue.

GIRLS, WOMEN SAFER FROM FIRE DANGER

Girls and women are safer from fire at home today than they have ever been, as a result of improved modern equipment.

Insurance statistics show that the death rate from burns and sends has fallen to less than half of what it was 15 years ago.

Attributing the decreased number of deaths from fire in the home to great advances in home lighting, cooking and heating facilities, and to wide safety education, the National Board of Fire

Underwriters reminded housewives that home fires still can take a huge toll every year.

7,000 Home Fire Deaths

With all the conveniences that have combined to make life simpler and safer, 7,000 or more persons still lose their lives in home fires each year, the fire authorities added. Mechanical improvements can achieve just so much in matter of safety, they pointed out, then human responsibility enters.

Asking all householders to observe Fire Prevention Week this year by looking over their homes for fire safety, the National Board suggested these rules be followed:

1. Keep basement, closets and the attic clear of all rubbish, or unnecessary stored furniture.

2. Have electric wiring checked by a qualified electrician. Don't try to be a home handyman yourself.

You may cross your wires and be short one home.

3. Clean Furnace For Safety

4. If the furnace and chimney

haven't been cleaned this year, this year.

5. If the furnace and chimney

haven't been cleaned this year, this
